

Jonathan Moore

Jonathan Moore is an attorney with the Immigration Practice Group of McCandlish Holton, PC in Richmond, VA. He represents businesses and skilled workers at all stages of the immigration process, and he has extensive experience preparing employment-based nonimmigrant visa petitions, as well as employment-based green card applications in all categories, for clients in a variety of industries. He frequently writes and presents on business immigration topics.

Matthew Gross

Matthew D. Gross is a corporate immigration attorney in the Dallas office of Berry Appleman & Leiden LLP (BAL). Mr. Gross focuses his practice on all aspects of employment-based immigration law, including the full range of nonimmigrant and immigrant categories. Mr. Gross advises clients on worksite compliance related issues including Form I-9 and E-Verify compliance. He provides strategic counsel to entities of all sizes, including Fortune 500 companies, major universities, industry-leading IT companies, and successful startups. Prior to joining BAL, Mr. Gross practiced at a boutique immigration law firm and focused his practice on employment-based immigrant and nonimmigrant visa matters, investor visas, and worksite compliance.