5th Circuit Greater Adherence to Lozada Criteria

- Petition for review denied where pro se applicant argued to the BIA after filing complaint with the State Bar alleging ineffective assistance of counsel, but did not comply with 2nd prong of Lozada and give counsel opportunity to respond before making ineffective claim.

Hernandez-Ortez v. Holder, 741 F.3d 644 (5th Cir. 2014).

- 2nd prong required despite the lawyer having left the country, and despite argument that it would not serve a bona fide purpose.

Rodriguez-Manzano v. Holder, 666 F.3d 948, 953 (5th Cir. 2012).

Defenses Against LOZADA

Prejudice to the Respondent

- Must demonstrate prejudice , even where Lozada is met
- "[T]he only way to cure the... defect in the original hearing is to afford [petitioner] not only a new hearing, but also a hearing in which counsel may protect [petitioner's] rights to the same extent that the attorney would have in the first hearing."

'Batanic v. INS, 12 F.3d 662, 667 (7th Cir. 1993) cited in Castillo-Perez v. INS, 212 F.3d 518,528 (9th Cir. 2000).

Defenses against LOZADA

Reasonable Tactical Decisions are not Ineffective Assistance of Counsel

- Concession of alienage with the goal of pursuing cancellation of removal, rather than pursue motion to suppress based on confidentiality provisions of 1986 Legalization Program was a reasonable tactical decision –

Torres-Chavez v. Holder, 567 F.3d 1096, 1102 (9th Cir. 2009);

- It is not ineffective assistance of counsel to make tactical decisions that ultimately fail to the client's detriment –

LeBlanc v. INS, 715 F.2d 685, 694 (1st Cir. 1983); Rodriguez-Gonzalez, v. INS, 640 F.2d 1139, 1142 (9th Cir. 1981);

Defenses against LOZADA

Reasonable Tactical Decisions are not Ineffective Assistance of Counsel

- Hindsight applied to unwise tactical decision to withdraw asylum application does not constitute ineffective assistance of counsel –
Awad v. Ashcroft, 328 F.3d 336, 343 (7th Cir. 2003);
- Recommendation to seek voluntary departure instead of pursuing a meritless asylum application does not constitute ineffective assistance of counsel –
Jiang v. Mukasey, 522 F.3d 266, 270 (2nd Cir. 2008);
- Failure to inform immigration court that respondent was married to a U.S. citizen and potentially eligible for adjustment of status where respondent had previously been found to have entered into a fraudulent marriage to avoid challenge to credibility is a tactical decision did not result in violation of due process –
Romero v. INS, 399 F.3d 109, 111-12 (2nd Cir. 2005);

Filing LOZADA with USCIS

- Applying Lozada to DHS decisions, other than Removal Proceedings
- Court rejected DHS claim that Lozada and ineffective claims only apply to removal proceedings.

Hovhannisyan v. DHS, 624 F.Supp.2d 1135, 1147-48 (C.D. Cal.2008).
- Ineffective assistance could be raised as an extraordinary circumstance for the untimely filing of a motion to extend status under 8 C.F.R. § 214.1(c)(4)
- Appeal with the AAO submitted to the wrong address
